

Copper busbar for new energy lithium battery

Do you need a bus bar for your DIY lithium batteries?

We are continuing our deep dive into bus bars for our DIY lithium batteries. Bus bars (busbars) are short strips of conductive metal for high current electric connections. We are going to use some to connect the battery cells in our batteries. While the concept of a bus bar is simple, getting the right bus bar is nuanced.

What is copper busbar technology?

Copper busbar technology is widely used to achieve electrical connections with power distribution systems due to their flexibility and compactness.

What is a copper bus bar?

A copper bus bar is a component that can perform multiple tasks including distributing large amounts of current, mounting components, and dissipating heat. It is often used either alone or in conjunction with a circuit board.

What are the busbar sizes for lithium-ion battery pack?

For a 14-series, 9-parallel lithium-ion battery pack, the busbar sizes have been taken as 16 mm² based on the industry standard current density of 3 A/mm² (Total current: 48 A).

What are flexible bus bars?

Because of its feature of good conductivity, flexible, easy to install and space saving, flexible busbars are widely used in electric vehicle battery pack, new energy power distribution, UPS, Charging pile etc. Flexible bus bars are made up of layers of copper foils in various width and number of layers.

What are the advantages of flexible busbars?

Because of its feature of good conductivity, flexible, easy to install and space saving, flexible busbars are widely used in electric vehicle battery pack, new energy power distribution system, UPS, Charging pile etc. Insulation flame retardant: UL94V-0. Resistance to corrosion: It can pass 240H salt spray test in neutral environment.
