Here, we propose that the salt crystals can serve as an ideal structure for evaporation with proper manipulations. Taking advantage of the self-amplifying salt creeping and efflorescence effects, the salt crystals self-assemble to form a hierarchical porous salt evaporator (HPSE), enabling passive liquid supply and efficient evaporation.

The development of active life for PSCs remains stagnant ascribing to the unstable structure of self-assembled monolayer hole-transporting materials (SAMHTMs) with heteroatom substitution. Xue and co-workers introduced a chemical inert and extensive delocalized structure into the rigid self-assembled molecule Py3, which greatly increased the ...
